ABSTRACT, IMPRESSIONISTIC AND CUBIST IMAGES February 20 by Lawrence White

My life has been a whirlwind since my partner, and I purchased a house and studio in Saratoga at the end of last year. The resulting burst of creative inspiration and energy that working on the ecology of the property provided me turned into a new body of work. Perhaps my best. In the process we restored a creek and pond that had been filled many years ago. It has been an amazing experience and I have photographed the entire process.

© Lawrence White

I call them “light paintings” because that is exactly what they are. In the end, each one is a true collaboration between photo-artistry, the form & design created by the hand of nature and the miracle of light. Of course, the final prints will be large format, some up to 80”.

I also see this new portfolio as a compilation of everything I have learned from the many truly great artists of all the disciplines I have been fortunate to have known and worked with from childhood through art school to present. Our discussion will cover some of their work as well.

The resulting new portfolio of “Abstract / Impressionistic / Cubist” images are a pure joy to cre-

Abstract, Impressionist and Cubist Images (Continued from page 1)

In reference to my new abstract work... In my opinion, it is crucial for photographers to create art every day. Capturing and manipulating light for purely aesthetic reasons keeps the eye alive and helps maintain a strong connection to the imagination. It also forces the photographer to utilize their equipment in ways they had not imagined, thereby making them more observant, and confident when on assignment or in the studio. We will discuss this as well.

Lawrence

Lawrence White's professional photography career spans over 4 decades. In that period of time his photographic work has been seen world wide in publications such as the NY Times, Boston Globe, Rolling Stone, Vogue, People, Time, Forbes, Der Spiegel and Le Monde. Lawrence won the NY Press Association award for his striking images of the terrorist attacks on NYC, 9-11-01. His film work has been collected by the Smithsonian Museum Archives of American Art. Lawrence also received a short film award from the American Film Institute in 1994. For the past 3 years Lawrence taught a series of highly successful photo workshops in conjunction with Saratoga Arts, the National Museum of Dance and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Phil Olivo

CELEBRATE YOUR WORK— YOU'RE BETTER THAN YOU THINK!

A couple of months ago a friend (yes, I have a few), fellow photographer and SPS member posted a landscape photo on Facebook. My immediate and continuing reaction is “WOW”. I was enthralled by the composition and minimal use of color in a monochrome image. It was truly a “wall-worthy” image.

I expected to see more of that photo in our Traveling Exhibit and competitions. That just didn't happen. In my usual shy and retiring manner I asked the photographer about it. He replied that he just never thought about it.

I think we all fall into that state of mind. We don't give ourselves credit for the wonderful work we do. We don't share our work with our fellow artists and the public. Here is an item for your to do list. Go back over the last couple of months of your photography, find that gem and share it. Hang it on your wall, enter into competition and our Traveling Exhibit. Get it out for others to see and appreciate. You do great work and deserve the recognition.

Speaking of creativity and great images, when you're doing that review of your work: what can you enter into the upcoming Luba Ricket Creativity Competition?

Stay well, keep in touch and do good work!

THE ALBANY PINE BUSH PRESERVE

February 6

by Sara Poggi-Decker

On February 6, Education Director of the Albany Pine Bush Preserve, Sara Poggi-Decker, will take us on a tour of one of the Capital District's gems.

Picture a wide open landscape filled with dense shrubs, scattered pitch pines, openings of prairie grass and wildflowers all rooted in sweeping sand dunes. This is the Albany Pine Bush, also known as an inland pine barrens ecosystem, encompassing 3,200 acres and more than 18 miles of trails. It was formed toward the end of the last Ice Age 12,000–15,000 years ago. At this time a large glacial lake stretched from present day Glens Falls, NY, to Newburgh, NY. Over time, the water drained leaving behind the sandy deposits of the lake floor

These sandy soils now support the Albany Pine Bush ecosystem. A National Natural Landmark, the preserve is also a New York State Unique Area, Bird Conservation Area and a National Audubon Society Important Bird Area. More than 1,500 plant and animal species can be found in the Pine Bush, including the federally endangered Karner Blue Butterfly.

APB Coyote Program Krishna Hill, Dec. 2015

A feature of the Preserve is the Discovery Center—where visitors of all ages can learn about the unique environment and human history of the Albany Pine Bush. Interactive and interpretive exhibits and nature trails are all features of the Discovery Center.

365 DAYS OF POSSIBILITIES

February 13

by Claudia Jokubawski

Join Claudia Jokubawski, former SPS member, on February 13, 2019 for her talk on her 2018 365 Photo-A-Day Challenge on Instagram. She will discuss how the idea came about; how it evolved and the valuable life lessons she learned from the project. The presentation will not be a lesson on how to use the social media platform but rather how posting to Instagram everyday turned into one her best life experiences. Claudia hopes that her discussion will encourage others to try a photo challenge. She will discuss how something that started out as a whim turned into a project that taught her not only about photography and more importantly it taught her to view the world differently; to challenge herself; to stick to something and to try new things.

PHOTOGRAPHING MODELS WORKSHOP REVIEW

RESCHEDULED!

February 27
by Doug Mitchell

Editor's Note: This program, scheduled for January 23, was "iced out"! Whether you participated in the portrait workshop or not, all members will benefit from this photo critique and Doug's post-processing tips.

As a follow-up to our Photographing Models Workshop on November 3rd, Doug will discuss a few of the elements and concepts covered during the workshop. He will also look at some of the images submitted by participants, noting aspects that bring an image to a higher level as well as a few tips that might improve or elevate an image for greater impact.

Some relevant items discussed will include processing tips, white balance, skin tones, highlights, contrast and sharpening.

To wrap up there will be an opportunity for member comments, questions and observations.

SAVE THE DATE!

Compositing Workshop with Jim Christensen

Saturday, March 2, 1-4 pm

This workshop will teach you ways to create images that come partly from your camera, and partly from your imagination. I'll show you how to use Adobe Photoshop or Photoshop Elements as creativity tools to tap into your inner artist, and how compositing can be used not only to paste a new head on Aunt Edna, but also to:

- replace boring skies you got on a photo expedition,
- improve your visual compositions by adding focal points and/or removing distractions,
- combine frames taken at different times with different outstanding elements,
- completely change the mood of an image,
- steer your viewer's eye by selectively manipulating detail, color, and luminosity

In addition, you'll learn how to edit images non-destructively so that you can experiment with different renderings without losing and reconstructing work, and without starting over. This is incredibly valuable for visual artists who need to experiment with different looks to see what works best. These techniques will for example, let you re-light images for dramatic effect, and in a way that lets you change your mind at any point in the image's edit history.

So come prepared to expand the images you can both imagine and construct on your computer... what I call your create space. Bring your laptop, your captures, and your imagination. If you're not already a Photoshop user, I'll help you get started. See you at the workshop!

SIGN-UP DETAILS WILL BE FORTHCOMING ON OUR FACEBOOK PAGES, WEBSITE AND VIA EMAIL.

PARTICIPATION IS LIMITED AND REGISTRATION WILL BE VIA PAYPAL.

PARTICIPANTS SHOULD BE PREPARED TO BRING A LAPTOP WITH PHOTOSHOP OR PHOTOSHOP ELEMENTS;

FOCUS ON

Alan Wiggins

My interest in photography started long ago when, in 1970, my future father-in-law explained the basics of his Canon SLR to me. I was impressed by the see-through-the-lens design. He taught me the basics of photography - exposure triangle, manual focusing, DOF, etc. I was hooked, but being just nineteen I could not afford an expensive camera. The following year I was drafted into the army (no bone spurs) and after my infantry training I was to depart for Germany. I decided I should get a good camera to take with me, so I purchased the least expensive SLR I could find, a Hanimex Praktica with a 50mm 1.8 lens.

While in Germany I managed to shoot some sights, a lot of castles, churches and countryside. I even got some shots in East Berlin with my pocket size Minolta 110. The Soviets allowed us to tour on board buses but we were not allowed to have cameras with us. I snuck mine in anyway, hoping that if discovered at checkpoint Charlie they would just confiscate it, not ship me off to some Russian gulag.

After completing my military service in 1973, I got married, started a family, and went to college on the GI bill, completing my BS in 1978. A very busy five years to say the least; no time for serious photography, but I still had my SLR and continued using it for family photos and events. I would continue in this mode for another 25 years!

In the early 2000's the digital era started for me; I purchased a Canon G5. I enjoyed shooting with this new technology with its great colors and immediate feedback, but I was disappointed when it came to action shots. It was just too slow to capture the action (my lack of skills didn't help either). This frustration came to a head while on a whale watch in 2009. We came upon two whales acting in tandem to corral the baitfish and then, coming up from below, they would breach simultaneously with huge amounts of baitfish in their mouths. It was an incredible display of nature in action. The tour guide had never before seen two whales acting in tandem like that and was so excited she totally forgot about us and focused completely on photographing the event with her Nikon D90. I'm sure she got some great shots. Myself on the other hand got some nice shots of swirling water left behind after the whales descended ☺. I knew then I needed a DSLR.

Well I finally got my DSLR in 2011, a Nikon D7000, and just in time to start shooting grandkids playing sports. I quickly started shooting raw and processing in Lightroom. I was really starting to enjoy photography, but it wasn't until 2016 when I retired that I took the deep dive into it. I started reading online forums every day, purchased some online lessons and soaked up as many tips as I could find online. Although I was learning a lot, I wasn't doing enough shooting to put into practice what I was learning. I decided that joining a local photography club might inspire me to get out and shoot more, so I joined SPS in September 2018.

Continued...

FOCUS ON: Alan Wiggins

I'm currently shooting with a D7200 and a few prime and zoom lenses (and constantly trying to suppress my gear acquisition syndrome). I use Lightroom for photo organization and post processing, and currently trying to learn Photoshop. I print on my Canon Pixma Pro 100.

Although I haven't found my favorite niche yet, I do know that I don't have the patience it takes for birds or other wildlife photography and macro (bugs) I have no interest in. I will probably gravitate more towards landscape, street and travel photography. I'm just beginning my photography as an art form journey and enjoying every minute of it.

For more than four decades, enormous advertisements displayed in New York City's Grand Central Terminal affirmed a picturesque notion of everyday American life. The 18-foot-by-60-foot images depicted an idyllic nation: beautiful landscapes, holiday celebrations, world-changing historical events, family road trips, and patriotism.

This exhibition examines the captivating advertisements, offering insight into America, and the histories of advertising, photography, and technology. Thirty-six reproduced images from the George Eastman Museum depict an idealized past for a new generation, and a welcome reintroduction for those who lived through the decades that helped shape photography.

Organized by the George Eastman Museum.

ABOUT THE SCHENECTADY PHOTOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

by Linda Tommasulo

For more than 85 years, the Schenectady Photographic Society has been the meeting place of photographers of all levels—from beginners to serious amateurs to professionals—with the goal of exploring and sharing their love of photography. Members throughout the Capital Region meet primarily on Wednesday nights to engage in various competitions (print, projected, photo essay and more), enjoy member round-table discussions, guest speaker presentations and hands-on mentoring to further their knowledge, creativity and inspiration. Occasional field trips give us the opportunity to expand our photographic vision; and frequent exhibits in the local area allow us to share that vision.

In addition to our monthly print and projected competitions, we are challenged with an assigned topic—encouraging participants to venture out of their comfort zones. Members participating in competitions receive specific commentary and suggestions to take their images to the next level. Don't wish to compete? That's OK too. Observing competitions is always an inspirational and learning experience.

The Schenectady Photographic Society is an enthusiastic and energetic group. Our camaraderie is infectious. Check out our calendar on the last page (season runs from late September to mid-May) and join us! Visitors are always welcomed...especially those who have a passion for photography.

*It's not about being better than everyone else...
it's about being better than you were.*
